Understanding Your Health Record/Information

Each time you visit a hospital, physician, dentist, or other healthcare provider, a record of your visit is made. Typically, this record contains your symptoms, examination and test results, diagnoses, treatment, and a plan for future care or treatment.

Your physician shares some of your health information with other physicians, specialists, hospitals in order to provide them with the information they need to treat you. For example, if you have to go to the Emergency Room, the ER physician can look up the medications prescribed by your physician which will help you if you don't remember the dose or exact name of the drug. The RGV HIE is a nonprofit organization in the community that helps your physicians exchange information with other providers.

Understanding what is in your record and how your health information is used helps you to:

- Ensure its accuracy.
- Better understand who, what, when, where, why and how others may access your health information.
- Make more informed decisions when authorizing disclosure to others.
